MESSAGE FROM IMAN

GREETINGS EVERYONE!

Last year I was ignited to dive deeper into “Canadian Design”. What is it? How does it look? Is it a proper representation of we the people? What cultural influences contribute the function and aesthetics in design? And what does heritage mean to us as designers? There is a heavy presence of Eurocentric design that I feel does not reflect the country. When you meet someone in Toronto and ask “Where are you from?” 90% will answer another country or their parents immigrated to Canada.

Rewind, growing up my father was a proud Jamaican, bringing us home to travel and understand our heritage, roots and culture. Travelling around the island and living in Jamaica, one starts to understand Jamaica design. I’m not talking about brightly coloured exteriors. I’m talking about materials, language and most important, the function of the people. This had me going back and questioning Canadian design, and what makes it stand out from other countries, but first we must be willing to learn. Educate ourselves on our history and look at all the countries that contribute to “Canadian Design”.

This year, palettes I’m inspired by are: soft, feminine tones, balancing always with a pop of colour through fashion and interiors.

Wishing you a constant joy!

Iman

FIRST SOURCE OF INSPIRATION

I am in the process of designing one of my dream homes. This has been a long time coming and a huge inspiration with all things around me. I am in constant awe of nature, fashion and design in Africa and the Caribbean.

Colour palettes pulled from art in Sherwin-Williams colours.
